spr Johñ Woothe of Lancasthyre both wantynge and as yet nat founden

In this batayle the scottes hadde many great Auaun tagies/ that is to wyte the hyghe. Hylles and mountay nes a great wynde with them and sodayne rayne all con trary to oug bowes and Archers

It is nat to be doughted but the scottes fought manly and were determyned outher to wyne y felde or to dye They were also as well apoynted as was possyble at all poyntes with Armour & hartiers so that fewe of them were slayne with arrowes Howbeit the hylles dyd bete and hewe them downe with some payne and daungerto Englyshmen.

The sayd scottes were so playnely determyned to aby de batayle and nat to flee that they put from them theyr horses and also put of theyr bores and shoes and faught in the vamps/ of theyr hooses euery man for the moost prye/ with a kene and a shap spere of. v. perdes longe a nd a target afoz hym And when theyr speres sayled and wera spent/ then they faught with great end sharpe swer des makynng/ lytel loz no nops/ vichoue that/ that for the prye many of them wolde desyre to be saued.

The felde where y scottes dyd/ lodge was nat to be re prouyd but rather to be romended greatly for there ma ny and great nombze of goodly centres and moche good Auffe in the same & in the sayd felde was plentie of wyng
